Ki — A Light Energy that Fills Mind, Body and Soul vol.14

How to receive Shinkiko energy

Then how can we actually receive the Shinkiko energy?

The Shinkiko centers of SAS Inc. located throughout the country provide many Ki products, including the High Genki apparatus and services and occasions to try the Shinkiko energy.

And Ki energy is an energy that reaches through time and space, so you can receive it while being at home. But you can receive it much better at our centers where a good environment for receiving Ki has been created.

Also, in the Shinkiko Retreat Seminar, which is held throughout the country, you can expect to experience the maximum effect of the Shinkiko energy created within a short time, by the strong energy of the conscious minds of the participants and the well-thought environment.

The effect of the High Genki apparatus is semi permanent

First of all, let me talk about a Ki transferrer, the High Genki apparatus, which had led the late chairman to encounter with the Shinkiko energy and let him spread it. It is a basic “tool,” which allows the user to semi permanently receive Shinkiko energy wherever they are.

The apparatus was developed by the late chairman, Masato Nakagawa, who was told how to create it by an old white-bearded man appeared in his dream. To put it simply, it is a transferrer that picks out the vibrating energy of the Shinkiko energy from various other energies sent from the universe, and transfers and receives it.

At first, it was considered as a health appliance that heals people suffering from diseases, but later, as I mentioned earlier, the late chairman found out that the Shinkiko energy was actually an energy that penetrates deep into the soul. The apparatus constantly gathers the energy from the universe, and always gives it out to things such as the people’s body, place, our ancestors and other Ki products.

More than twenty years have already passed since the apparatus was first developed, and it is enjoyed by many people. It is still not possible to explain the existence of Ki energy, nor is it possible to measure the amount or the power of it by the modern science. But its effect has been proved in various ways, and there are many doctors who use the apparatus in their treatment.

Doctor Shinji Nishimoto (from Nishimoto Daini Clinic in Wakayama prefecture), who had been suffering from ulcerative colitis, but improved with the apparatus, examined the effect of it in detail using the data on the medical effectiveness of the apparatus, and presented a paper on it at an academic meeting.

The apparatus has been attracting attention in the field of oriental medicine and holistic medicine that focus on not only taking away affected areas and symptoms, but also enhancing patients’ capacity to heal themselves, including mental healthcare. Also, it has been used in some national hospitals several times. Thanks to these things, we are more convinced of its effect.

How the High Genki apparatus transfers Ki

Let me explain how the High Genki apparatus works in a little detail. The apparatus consists of an attaché-case like body and a hair dryer-shaped head. The head, which is connected to the body with a cord, periodically vibrates by electrical signals. Ki is emitted from the pyramids inside the tip of the head; you hold the head in your hand when directly receiving Ki.

The body supplies electricity to the head to vibrate and detects acupressure points by a change in the conductivity of the human body (an acupressure point sensor). Ki can be absorbed in any spot on the body; not just from acupressure points, but by stimulating the points you may benefit from it while receiving Ki.

The vibrating energy of all the High Genki apparatuses has been adjusted at SAS's office (this process is called "putting in Ki"), after they were made at a manufacturer. This "putting in Ki" process allows the apparatus to tune in to an energy called Shinkiko energy from the universe.

Actually, to receive Ki, it does not really matter whether the apparatus' power is on or not. The electricity is not for emitting Ki, but for vibrating the tip of the head, which gives the user a comfortable feeling, and for the acupressure point sensor to work.

So, you can receive Ki from the apparatus without plugging it in or without connecting the head to the body. Ki is always transferred to the head from the body, even if the apparatus is not turned on. By applying the head to any part of your body or just putting the apparatus around you, you can receive Ki. The apparatus receives the strong energy from the universe once and emits it from its head; before it emits the energy, the quality of its vibrating energy is converted to a level where the user can receive it. So, the one who applies the head to someone can also receive Ki.

If you are applying the High Genki to a sick person, both of you can receive Ki; the more you are conscious of it, the more you can absorb the energy.

The Ki transferrer that has been continuously evolving

Twenty years have passed since the High Genki apparatus was born, and many things have been revealed about it and many refinements have been added.

The Shinkiko energy gathered to the body of the High Genki apparatus is always sent not only to its head, but also to the spirits without bodies such as your ancestor, and the space around it. Since it was made clear that the High Genki sent the energy not only to the user, but also to his family and ancestors, his workmates and others who are related to him, another Ki transferrer, the Personal HG, which only sends the energy intensively to an individual user, was developed. This Personal HG can be connected to each type of Ki transferrer's head, just like the High Genki apparatus. By connecting it to a Ki transferrer's head with a cord, the user can receive the energy intensively and also the head can vibrate. There is also a rechargeable type of Personal HG; since this is small in size and portable, many users use it as another Ki transferrer body.

The most important basic part of the High Genki apparatus and the Personal HG for transferring Ki, is a trilaminar structured "Ki transferring element (or unit)," which consists of pyramids, ceramics and magnets. The late chairman was told how to create this also in his dream by a white bearded old man; and based on it, I integrated and compacted the element, and developed the Power Unit in the year 2000.

A Ki transferrer adjusts the amount of Ki emitted from the head depending on how much amount the head can radiate the energy. So, by increasing the emitting capacity of the head, more energy can be transferred and be used. The Power Unit dramatically increases the amount of Ki energy that can be transferred when it is attached inside a Ki radiating head.
