Ki — A Light Energy that Fills Mind, Body and Soul vol.16

Feel the energy and let it soak into your soul --- the "Soft Head"

The Soft Head, like the White Ceramic Head, was developed to let the user focus more easily with its vibration. There are two parts that generate the vibration in a cylindrically shaped sponge, which is 3.5cm in diameter and 21.5cm in length. And it is designed to vibrate with much larger amplitude when it is connected to the High Genki apparatus or the Personal HG.

Since it is soft, you can put it on the bed and lie on it. Also, it has a pouch cover with a clip on its both ends; by using supporters for the neck and the back, you can put it around your neck, shoulders or back, and receive Ki and enjoy the vibration while sitting in a chair or while working.

Since the quality of the vibrating energy of Shinkiko energy has become refined, Shinkiko receivers can now absorb the energy better by trying to tune in to Ki. The more you focus on receiving Ki and the vibrating energies resonate with each other, the more you can absorb Ki at once. The universe wants to send Shinkiko energy as much as possible; and in absorbing the energy, the important point is tuning in to the will of the universe in some way. And the effective way to tune in to it, is stimulating the skin and the body with heat and vibration.

For example, suppose you are watching TV with a Soft Head vibrating on your shoulders. Even if you are preoccupied with the interesting program you are watching, your attention may shift to the head during a commercial break due to its vibration, and you may be able to absorb a lot of Ki at once. The Soft Head does not have a new vibration peculiar to ceramic, like the White Ceramic Head has, but it must be suitable for the Ki beginners to use in that it is easy to pay attention to it.

New ways of receiving Shinkiko energy

Since the development of the High Genki apparatus by the late chairman up until now, the Shinkiko energy has become more penetrating and become able to reach our soul, although it used to be just taking away negative Ki around people.

At first, the apparatus was used as an effective health appliance and was only able to superficially purify negative Ki. But because the late chairman became spiritually awakened just before he died, the apparatus has become a Ki transferrer that pours the energy into souls and spirits. It has evolved into a tool which sends the energy to a soul or spirit and brings about spiritual awakening. It changes the mindset of the person first and then eventually makes him healthier. And since I developed the Power Unit, which can pour a strong light into a soul, the penetrating speed of Ki dramatically increased.

Also, the new heads, White Ceramic Head and the Soft Head, enable the user to directly feel the Shinkiko energy that comes into the body by physically perceivable things like heat and vibration. Thus, new ways of receiving Shinkiko energy are increasing.

User's awareness heightens the power of the High Genki apparatus

So far, various Ki transferrers and Ki goods have been developed, and it has become possible to receive a strong Shinkiko energy. The important point here is, the more a Ki receiver makes an effort to receive Shinkiko energy, the more effectively the Ki transferrers work; this has remained the same from the start.

Whether it is one of the Ki goods, the High Genki apparatus or the White Ceramic Head, how well they work depends largely on the vibrating energy of the user's soul and his state of mind, which cannot be measured or described by science.

The effect of Ki related goods is not only limited to their users. The energy poured into a user's soul increases the light within him, and he becomes able to give the energy to the people and spirits without bodies around him. The spirits who are given the energy will support him in return for it, and as a result, a stronger positive Ki will gather, and things will be better making the spirits evolve.

The more people use Ki transferrers and send light also to the spirits in the invisible world, the more the energy being transferred will increase in amount and be heightened in quality. The larger the amount of Ki a transferrer can transfer, even if there are not many users, the more effective it can be. And if the user uses it ardently, believing in its power, the energy will reach many spirits and penetrate deeper within them at once. So, how effectively Ki transferrers can work and how much Ki they can emit, really depends on the users' mind and the state of their consciousness.

The Shinkiko Retreat Seminar --- where a most powerful Ki is transferred

The following is a little more detailed explanation of the Shinkiko Retreat Seminar.

The Shinkiko energy is transferred by Ki transferrers such as the High Genki apparatus and the peripherals, which gather and emit the energy from the universe. In the Shinkiko Retreat Seminar, the participants can receive the highest Shinkiko energy.

The seminar, which runs for three nights and four days, is designed to let the participants receive Shinkiko energy, and increase the amount of their energy through yoga and various other seminars to improve their mind; when they are sleeping, taking a bath or listening to a seminar, whatever they are doing, they can receive the energy, as much as possible before they know it.

Metaphorically speaking, it is like a nail becomes magnetized when it clings to a magnet: the participants are wrapped in a strong "magnetism" during the seminar, and eventually all of them will be able to emit Ki.

Just applying the High Genki apparatus to yourself is equivalent to a nail just clinging to a magnet; it does not make the nail become strongly magnetized. But the building where the Shinkiko Retreat Seminar is held, is full of a strong Ki; due to a bandwagon effect with the contents of the seminar, the participants will be encouraged to be spiritually awakened and experience a drastic change in their mind. Sometimes, some sick people may get better, but what is more, the way they live will greatly change.

Since around us is full of negative Ki, positive Ki tends to be offset by it. In the Retreat Seminar, the participants are "stuck" at the facility where the negative Ki is blocked out, and only the positive energy is sent to them. They will not have a time to lose the energy to think; they are given a time to review themselves to find out what they are missing and are encouraged to take everything happens during the seminar as training. By doing so, with a synergistic effect of their positive Ki they emit and the positive Ki from outside, they can charge themselves with a great positive Ki.

Then what kinds of people participate in the seminar? When the seminar started in Izu-Shimoda, there seemed to be many seriously sick and hurt people. But after the location of the seminar had changed and after I took over the late chairman's work, reasons for people applying for the seminar gradually changed.
