Ki — A Light Energy that Fills Mind, Body and Soul vol.7

The High Genki apparatus transfers Ki sent from the universe

In the course of doing his work using the High Genki apparatus, the late chairman started saying, “The High Genki apparatus is a Ki transferrer: the Shinkiko energy comes from the universe and gathers to the machine, and the machine radiates it.” What he meant was, the High Genki is a machine that receives the energy from the universe. The universe is always sending the energy to us, but its vibrating energy is so different from ours that we can not tune in to it. The High Genki apparatus is a transferrer which changes the Shinkiko's vibrating energy into a level which allows us to receive it.

The energy which the High Genki apparatus transfers not only acts on symptoms on our body but also acts on the paranormal world which we can not see, and makes a big change in our life.

When this energy reaches our spirit or soul, fundamental of our life, it purifies our mind that has been full of pain and sorrow, and allows our soul to grow more. Then we will be broad-minded, be considerate for others, and be able to afford to watch others.

From healing to spiritual awakening — Shinkiko energy has evolved

At the time when the apparatus was developed, it was used as a health appliance to heal people with unbearable pains such as stiff shoulder and back pain.

But later, the apparatus turned out to be effective for many other symptoms. At that time, the late chairman became able to Ki energy from his hands, and the energy was used to heal people not only with minor symptoms but also with major symptoms. And the Shinkiko energy began to be seen more as a healing tool.

At first, the late chairman believed that it was bad spirits or ghosts who made people sick and unhappy, so if they were gone, people would get well and become happy. He thought all the spirits were nuisance. When he sent Ki to people, spirits who were hiding within them appeared and started crying, getting excited, talking and saying things like “It's killing me,” “It hurts.” He interacted with them and sometimes persuaded them by saying “You're already dead; go to the world of light.”

The late chairman spread the Shinkiko therapy by healing mainly people with incurable diseases, and between his activities in Japan, he also actively went abroad. He was invited by the Republic of Belarus of the former Soviet Union to help the victims of the Chernobyl nuclear accident and also invited the victims' children to Japan and helped them to heal; healed the AIDS patients from the Dominican Republic; helped the Hopi people who were exposed to radiation from a hydrogen-bomb test and interacted with wild animals such as dolphins and baby seals that are hunted indiscriminately for Chinese medicine. He traveled around the world in order not just to heal sick people, but to spread the Shinkiko energy. The way he worked was so great that he reminded me of a superman-like energy body that works way beyond an individual's limit.

And in 1995, a bigger turning point came. The late chairman succumbed to a disease. At this time, it dawned on him how important spiritual awakening was. He learned hard way that being sick is a good chance for people to be spiritually awakened.

Why do people get sick? Why do people become unhappy and have hard times? They do not just occur to them by chance; they are the experiences that all the people have to go through in order to let their souls grow... After he realized it, the vibrating energy of Shinkiko evolved greatly. In addition to a healing vibrating energy of Shinkiko energy, which heals sick people, a vibrating energy of spiritual awakening was added.

The late chairman changed the method of Shinkiko therapy from just persuading the spirits who appear from the Ki receivers and getting rid of symptoms to just sending the energy intensively to people. He just focused on sending the energy to Ki receivers' souls and the spirits hiding within their body and mind. I followed his example and have been just focusing on sending Ki to people until now.

So, in the Shinkiko therapy, you should not be afraid of spirits or ghosts. They help us to be spiritually awakened, although sometimes affect us with negative energies, and become our spiritual guardian when their negative energies change into positive.

From the late chairman's experiences, it became clear that the vibrating energy of Shinkiko energy has a nature which enhances spiritual awakening. And we changed the way we look at the High Genki apparatus: we began to look at it as a transferring device that charges people's soul with Shinkiko energy, rather than as a health appliance. The Shinkiko energy is a lofty exquisite vibrating energy sent from the universe. The High Genki apparatus is a machine that converts the energy to a level where people can use it.

If you receive Shinkiko energy, it encourages you to be spiritually awakened and allows your vibrating energy to tune in to the lofty vibrating energy of the great universe, and your consciousness heightens fast. In a sense, the High Genki apparatus could be regarded as a communication instrument which connects the great will of the universe and humans.
