Ki — A Light Energy that Fills Mind, Body and Soul vol.13

The number of lost spirits is increasing

For the past several years, I have been feeling a sense of crisis about one thing. It is the fact that the number of the spirits who lost their physical bodies is increasing every year. I keenly feel so in my Shinkiko therapy and seminars.

And the problem is that many of the spirits had not denied the existence of the spirit and another world, or had not known about it when they were alive. They all know where they should go, but cannot go there.

So far, the spirits who remain and wander in this world after they died are usually the ones that have pain and sorrow, that have a strong grudge against someone; that are obsessed with this world; or that had not known about another world and the spirit at all, not even knowing their death. These spirits just cannot realize that they are dead and their body is gone, because they are conscious just like when they were alive.

Then why do these spirits who can realize that they are dead and know about the existence of another world, wander around in this world?

In this world, the lives of nearly 25,000 people are lost everyday due to famine, and diseases caused by it. Even in Japan, where there are no famines or conflicts, about tens of thousands of people die in car accidents and by suicide every year. The spirits of the dead lose their energy if they are surrounded by negative-minded spirits and are affected strongly by them. It is like they are stuck in a dark, fog-like thing, which has been formed by a densely accumulated negative Ki. The light from another world cannot reach there; and their energy is not strong enough to find the way they should go on their own. The spirits in the dark fog are alone; they keep asking themselves where they are, and feel helpless. Such lost spirits are in the world where there is no death, but the time is infinite; their pains remain forever if they stay there.

I personally think that any unexplained accident and case that are beyond common sense, and various kinds of trouble we daily encounter, must have something to do with it.

The lost spirits do not know where they are, so they sometimes ask their close relatives for help, and sometimes slip into someone's body, who has the similar vibrating energy as theirs. This situation is called "tempted by an evil spirit." In this situation, you may say crazy things or do absurd things unexpectedly.

In this tangible world, we are facing many serious problems such as, unending conflicts, environmental pollution and food problems. And in the intangible world, the crisis situation is getting worse, and the two worlds keep varying from hour to hour.

In such a situation, it is important that we send a strong Ki energy to lost spirits and let them set off for the place where they should go. The universe is hoping that anyone who now knows about Shinkiko energy will give out a lot of light in their daily lives.

Chapter 4 How a Ki transferrer works Receiving a light energy --- Shinkiko --- beyond human knowledge

The High Genki apparatus was developed by the late chairman, Masato Nakagawa, who was led to make it by the dream he saw. The apparatus sends the Shinkiko energy to individual souls or spirits, and sends a strong light energy to bad things happen in this world and their causes that lie deep within them.

What is the real purpose of receiving Shinkiko energy?

Whether we are conscious of it or not, we are living in a world where various invisible energies mix and flow.

There are many kinds of energy: a good and a bad energy we emit; positive energies like spiritual guardians who watch over us; and negative energies that are emitted by dead spirits who haunt a certain place; who died holding a grudge; who want to torture someone because they are in agony; and so on.

And we are always under the influence of these energies around us, and many kinds of things happen. Many of accidents, diseases, unhappiness and others that occur to you like coincidence actually stem from a complex cause and effect relationship of the energies. Then, are we, who are confined to the physical body, with only a little knowledge and experience, capable of controlling them?

The Shinkiko energy is a strong positive energy sent to us, who are living in such a world, from the universe beyond human intelligence. It is a light energy that goes through the body, or a physical wall, in the material world, and directly charges the soul itself.

It also encourages people to be spiritually awakened and allows our soul to receive the benefit of the support from the universe. When the light reaches our soul, it attracts other positive energy and lets the soul shine brighter. The brightness not only reaches to the souls of your families and those related to you, but also to your ancestors and the spirits of those related to you. As a result, the negative energy that has been blocking your path will be taken away, and you will gradually find a way, attracting happiness.

Even if each seemingly bad thing, such as getting sick or having bad luck goes away temporarily, if the light does not reach to the cause of it, the same thing will happen again in a different way. The real aim of receiving the Shinkiko energy is to change the intangible soul or spirit exists in an intangible world beyond material world, and to let people feel real happiness.
